TICKET INFORMATION

Penn State, the top college football team in the East, has been the East's top gate attraction as well.

More than 330,000 fans are expected for the Lions' six home games this fall. The Oct. 27 game with West Virginia already had been declared a sellout as this brochure was being prepared. Tickets remained for the Iowa, Army, North Carolina State, Ohio U. and Pitt games.

The Nittany Lions demolished all former attendance records last year, attracting 320,122 fans to their six home games at Beaver Stadium. A single game record crowd of 60,465 watched the Lions blank Syracuse, 17-0, on Oct. 21. Penn State averaged 53,354 fans per game at 57,538 capacity Beaver Stadium.

Penn State sold out its entire stadium before the 1970 and 1971 seasons. The stadium was enlarged by more than 9,000 seats prior to the 1972 season.

LEGEND OF THE NITTANY LION

Penn State's athletic symbol, chosen by the student body in 1906, is a mountain lion once said to have roamed the central-Pennsylvania mountains. Because Penn State is located in the Nittany Valley at the foot of Mt. Nittany, the lion was designated as a Nittany Lion. Nittany evolved from the word Nita-Nee, which was the favorite cognomen for Indian maidens. Legend tells us that one Nita-Nee, the daughter of Chief O-Ko-Cho who lived near the mouth of Penn's Cave, fell in love with a trader named Malachi Boyer. For this Boyer was imprisoned and forced to die in Penn's Cave. The tearful maiden and her lost lover became legend and her name now graces the stately mountain and the athletic teams of Penn State.

BEAVER STADIUM

Home of the Nittany Lions

Penn State, which played its home games from 1909 through 1959 in 30,000 capacity Beaver Field on center campus, moved into the present all-steel stadium in 1960. The original capacity of Beaver Stadium was 46,284. An additional 2,060 seats were added in 1969, pushing the total seating to 48,344. The addition of 9,194 seats in 1972 brings the present capacity to 57,538.

Beaver Stadium is a unique combination of something old and something new. The old stadium was dismantled after the 1959 season and moved in 700 pieces a mile to the new East Campus location. It was reassembled beneath the new superstructure — and now towers 80 rows high on the West Side and 90 rows high on the East Side from goal line to goal line. The closed end of the horseshoe is 40 rows high.

Steel men say Beaver Stadium is the largest all-steel stadium in the country and probably in the world. There are 55,243 permanent seats (43,898 between the goal lines) and room for 2,295 temporary bleacher seats in the open end of the horseshoe. The stadium is named for General James A. Beaver, a former Pennsylvania governor who served for many years as president of the Penn State Board of Trustees.

FUTURE SCHEDULES ATTRACTIVE

Penn State's future schedules will include games with such perennial college football powers as Alabama, Auburn, Nebraska, Stanford and Notre Dame.

This year's schedule includes the opening game of a four-game series with Stanford, Rose Bowl champion two of the last three years. Stanford will come to Penn State to start the 1974, 1975 and 1976 seasons.

Eleventh game legislation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association has added interest and an intersectional flavor to the Lions' future schedules. In addition to the Stanford series, Duke and Alabama have been scheduled as 11th game opponents.

The 11th game opponents add excitement to future schedules that already included such intersectional competition as Iowa, Kentucky, Miami, Nebraska, North Carolina State and TCU in the years ahead.

The "regulars" such as Syracuse, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Army and Navy are fixtures on future schedules.

THE SEASON OUTLOOK

Joe Paterno says he is looking forward to the 1973 football season.

"I have a good feeling about this squad," says the nation's most successful college coach. "The morale was good during spring practice, there was a lot of enthusiasm and they appear to like each other. That's a big plus."

And did the Lions accomplish their spring training objectives? Are there replacements for All-American quarterback John Hufnagel, All-American defensive end Bruce Bannon and All-American linebacker John Skorupan?

"We came close to most of our objectives," Paterno says. "We stabilized our quarterback situation somewhat and we developed some depth in some other key areas. But all we have had so far is an indication that we have met our objectives. We won't really know until we see how things go in the fall."

The Lions resume practice on August 24 in preparation for their Sept. 15 opener at Stanford and the rest of a tough 11-game schedule.

"We will have to do everything better in the fall," Paterno says. "That's when we start being a football team."

Tom Shuman, Hufnagel's back-up man last year as a sophomore, will enter the fall as the Lions' number one quarterback. Shuman was impressive through most of the spring practice, but passed erratically in the final spring scrimmage.

Shuman's back-up probably will emerge from a group that includes sophomore Dick Barvinchak and juniors John Clark and Don Tarosky. Barvinchak, who missed all of last year while playing on the Penn State basketball team, was the most impressive of the trio during spring practice.

Running Game Strong

The running game looks strong with tailback John Cappelletti as the big gun. Cappelletti, a 210-pound tailback, had the second best rushing season in Penn State history last year when he slashed and bulled his way to 1,117 yards in 11 games.

"Cappy had a very fine spring," Paterno says. "He has to be as good as anybody in the country. I'm not saying he's the best because I haven't seen them all, but he is certainly as good as anybody."

Behind Cappelletti, who will co-captain the offense with guard Mark Markovich, are junior Walt Addie and sophomore Woody Petchel. Both are good runners and fine receivers.

The fullback job also appears to be in good hands. Bob Nagle, last year's starter, is being challenged for the job by Tom Donchez, who missed all of last year after starting several games as a sophomore in 1971.

"We are fortunate to have two good football players in that position," Paterno says. "Our whole running back situation is fine."

The Lions also appear to have excellent depth and ability at the wide receiver positions — flanker and split end. Chuck Herd and Gary Hayman were the starters for most of spring practice, but Paterno was very pleased by the development of Jim Eaise and Jerry Jeram.

In addition, the Lions will have two more of last year's regulars, Dave Bland and Jimmy Scott, returning to the team in the fall. Bland missed spring practice to study in England and Scott was a sprinter on the track team.

The tight end job belongs to Dan Natale, the team's top receiver last year as a sophomore. Gary Debes probably ranks as the number two man at that position.

The offensive line picture hinges on successful recovery from knee injuries by guard Paul Gabel and tackle Phil LaPorta. Both could be starters if healthy. The other regulars are Markovich, center Jack Baiaorunos and tackle Charlie Getty. John Nessel could give Gabel a battle for the other guard spot opposite Markovich.

Crowder a Key

The defensive outlook is complicated by an injury to All-American tackle candidate Randy Crowder, who missed spring practice while recuperating from knee surgery.

Paterno prepared for the worst — not having Crowder available — during the 20-day practice period. He moved Dave Graf, a starter at end last year as a sophomore, into Crowder's tackle spot next to Mike Hartenstine.

"I'm concerned whether we will be strong enough physically if we don't have Crowder," the Lion coach says. "Graf would be a good tackle, but he wouldn't make the big plays that he can make at end and Crowder can make at tackle."

If Crowder is able to play, Graf would move back to end, Crowder and Hartenstine would be the tackles and Greg Murphy would be the other end. Murphy was named the Lions' most improved player during the spring drills.

The linebacker situation appears solid with the emergence of several newcomers — notably Greg Buttle, Rich Kriston and Jim Rosecrans — to join returning veterans Ed O'Neil, Doug Allen, Tom Hull, Chris Devlin and Mike Orsini.

O'Neil, elected as a defensive co-captain with Crowder, should be one of the nation's top linebackers. The 6-3, 225-pounder has excellent speed.

The defensive secondary is led by defensive halfback Buddy Ellis, who has started every game for the past two seasons. He had an outstanding spring practice. Jim Bradley is the front runner for the other halfback job while Jack Koniszewski and Scott Mitchell are battling it out for the safety spot.

"We look a little quicker in the secondary than we were last year and some of our young people give us more depth there," Paterno says.

All in all, with a couple of big injury "ifs" in mind, it looks like another good season for the Lions, who have been ranked in the top ten and gone to a major bowl five of the last six seasons.

About the System

The Nittany Lions will continue to play a multiple offense in 1973, with emphasis on the Wing-T and Power-I. Featured will be a wide variety of formations from which the objectives are an attempt to develop balance between effective inside and outside running attacks and consistent passing.

Defensively, the Lions usually will operate with a four-man line, four linebackers (one of whom may be a rover at times), and a deep secondary of two halfbacks and a safety.

Nittany Lions Seek 35th Straight Non-Losing Season

Penn State registered its 34th straight non-losing season in 1972.

The Nittany Lions last lost more games than they won in 1938, when the record was 3-4-1. Since then, they've had 26 straight winning seasons (1939 through 1964), two .500 seasons (1965 and 1966) and six more winning seasons.

Penn State has posted 229 regular season victories against 80 defeats and nine ties since 1938. The Lions posted unbeaten records in 1947, 1968 and 1969; won Eastern championships in 1947, 1961, 1962, 1964, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1971 and 1972; and went to major bowl games following nine campaigns — 1947-59-60-61-62-67-68-69-71-72.

1973 OUTLOOK by Bob Murphy

A total of 26 lettermen will be missing from last year's team, most of them participants in Stanford's two consecutive Rose Bowl wins over Ohio State and Michigan.

On the brighter side, 29 lettermen will return, including 10 who have lettered twice and played in the 13-12 triumph over Michigan in Pasadena on New Year's Day, 1972. According to Coach Jack Christiansen, "We know exactly where we have to improve. We have brought in six junior college transfers who should help us, but there is a lot of teaching and learning which has to take place in a hurry. We were, obviously, pleased that Mike Boryla's eligibility was extended for this season. We're hoping that John Winesberry can remain healthy and I am sure that we will try to vary things a bit to take better advantage of his unique ability. We feel that we are in a pretty good position to improve on our record of last year, and the players are certainly optimistic about our chances of doing that."

1973 OUTLOOK by Tom Bates

As a Navy player and assistant at the Academy and at Penn State, George Welsh has kept company with winners. Welsh hopes success will continue to string along in his new career as Navy's head football coach. From the Midshipmen's 4-7 club of a year ago, Welsh inherits 20 of 40 lettermen. The principal weapons remain from the most prolific offense in Navy's football history. Heart of the running game is tailback Cleveland Cooper, first midshipman to gain 1,000 yards rushing in a single season. Quarterbacks Al Glenny and Fred Stuvek, who took turns as the triggerman in 1972, are back to battle for the starting assignment. It is unlikely that any team has two better receivers than Bert Calland and Larry Van Loan.

Welsh, however, faces the major assignment of rebuilding a defense shorn of nine starters by graduation. Captain Charlie Miletich, a linebacker, and safety Charlie Robinson are the only regulars returning.

1973 OUTLOOK by George Wine

Things are looking up at Iowa, where Coach Frank Lauterbur begins his third season. Lauterbur, who started Toledo on its long winning streak, took over a sinking program in 1971 and won only one game. The Hawkeyes finished 3-7-1 in 1972 and for the most part, played solid, competitive football. Three of their losses were by a total of 14 points, including a last-minute 14-10 defeat at Penn State.

Lauterbur has 41 lettermen, including 29 who have started at least one game, on his roster. One reason Iowa returns so many veterans is that Frank played freshmen in large numbers last fall. A total of 15 frosh earned letters and 10 started at one time or another.

Iowa's defense made some big strides last year but the offense continued to have problems. Iowa's pass defense was ranked No. 6 nationally. The Hawkeyes should have an excellent defensive team in 1973. If they can generate a consistent offense, Lauterbur's third team at Iowa will be a good one.

Air Force will be seeking a sixth consecutive winning season this fall and the outlook is one of confidence tempered with realism.

Last season, Air Force had one of the nation's highest scoring teams. Seven starters return from that offensive attack, including the entire passing game and most of the line.

Top offensive returnees include quarterback Rich Haynie, flanker Frank Murphy, split end Greg Smith, fullback Bill Berry and tight end Steve Hansen. All are seniors and all started last season.

Although the front line will have new faces on defense, the secondary is in much better shape, headed by linebacker Jim Morris and safety Steve Heil.

1973 OUTLOOK by Bob Kinney

Coach Tom Cahill faces what could be his biggest challenge since taking over the Army reins in 1966. Only 16 lettermen return from last year's 6-4 club, and only nine of those were starters at season's end. Particularly hard hit was the defense, where only tackle Ernie Chachere and end Bob Johnson started against Navy.

Offensively, quarterback Kingsley Fink and flanker Jim Ward should add up to lots of passing, with other receivers in split end Barry Armstrong and tight end Joe Miller. The top two rushers of a year ago, tailbacks Bob Hines and Bruce Simpson, have graduated, leaving concern for the running game. The kicking game will be strong with the return of place-kicker Jim Barclay and punter Dave Hohnstine.

Schwartzwalder

1973 OUTLOOK by Larry Kimball

The offense must develop a consistency that has been lacking since Larry Csonka's senior year. Last fall, Syracuse rushed for the most yards since 1967, but was the lowest scoring team in Ben's career. Bob Barlette and Steve Webster are the top running backs in the fold. Rob Sutton, the quarterback, passed for 105 yards in '72. Ben Schwartzwalder is one of the most successful men ever to coach the game of football. The 1973 campaign is his Last Hurrah. The schedule is tough. Again, there is no speed. Ben arrived in 1949 and had a losing season at 4-5. He then produced 22 straight non-losing elevens before posting a 5-6 mark last fall. It appears that Syracuse is more apt to approach last fall's record than to match any of Ben's seven bowl squads. But this should be a tough, hard hitting team, that has more desire than in recent falls. If so, the Last Hurrah will be a happy one.

Many of the players who provided the big play last season return, but WVU will need more consistency in 1973.

Only eight starters — five on offense and three on defense — and 25 lettermen are back from last season's high scoring team. Although a completely regrouped defense and an inexperienced quarterback will cause concern, head coach Bobby Bowden emphasizes that it will not be a rebuilding season.

"The potential is there," Bowden says, "I think the story in a nutshell is: 'How long will it take for us to mature?'"

1973 OUTLOOK by Ed Seaman

With 29 lettermen back from the 1972 team, the Wolfpack outlook is considerably brighter than it was a year ago. A tough schedule, which includes four bowl teams, serves, however, to put a curb on excessive optimism. The offensive unit should again be the team's major asset, returning 9 of 11 starters. As was the case in 1972, defense poses a problem, as does the kicking game. In brief, the Wolfpack, provided certain holes are plugged, should be formidable again.

1973 OUTLOOK by Frank Morgan

Decimated by injuries the past two years, Ohio University head football coach Bill Hess is faced with a rebuilding job in 1973 and the toughest grid schedule ever undertaken by the school.

Ohio loses six starters off the offensive unit, among which is the entire offensive interior line save one guard, two-year starter Ed Bestvina.

Twenty-five lettermen return, among them 12 starters, seven on defense and five on offense.

Bill Hess is hoping the third time is the charm and that the injury bug will subside in '73. With Ohio's rugged non-conference slate, plus the always tough Mid-American grind, the Bobcats need a break from the injury rash of the past.

1973 OUTLOOK by Dean Billick

Look for a MAJOR change in Pitt football in 1973.

Johnny Majors, that is.

Majors inherits a squad that will return 36 lettermen and an amazing 18 of 22 starters. But, as Majors is quick to point out, they were starters on a 1-10 team.

Among the returning players, Majors will have experience at nearly all positions. The offensive and defensive lines would appear to be the strong points with tough, experienced players returning up and down the lines.

Offensively, Pitt returns all its running backs and receivers, but a big question mark faces Majors at quarterback. Last year's regular, John Hogan, has graduated, leaving Majors with part-time starters Bob Medwid and Bill Daniels.

Defensively, the Panthers will be big and led by All-American candidate Jim Buckmon. Buckmon played superbly last season and was named to several All-East teams. Another All-East performer, Glenn Hyde, anchors a strong tackle corps.

The Coaches

JOE PATERNO

Head Football Coach
Penn State University

Joe Paterno is the nation's "winningest" college football coach.

Paterno's seven-year record of 63 wins, 13 losses and a tie gives him a winning percentage of .825, tops among major college coaches with at least five years as a head coach.

Paterno, who has turned down several lucrative professional football offers, has built Penn State's program into one of the nation's finest. The Nittany Lions have been ranked in the top ten and gone to a major bowl five of the last six years. They were 10-2 last year.

Included in Paterno's record are two of the longest streaks in college football history — 23 straight wins and 31 consecutive games without a loss. The Lions also have had a 15-game win streak under Paterno's direction.

The Lions won back-to-back Orange Bowl titles in 1969 and 1970 and posted a 30-6 victory over Texas in the 1972 Cotton Bowl.

Awards and honors have accumulated almost as fast as victories for Paterno. He was selected Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association in 1968 and has been named Eastern Coach of the Year three times. He was named national coach of the year for 1972 by the Walter Camp Football Foundation.

Paterno, who brings to coaching qualities of intellect and integrity, likes to talk about football at Penn State as the "Grand Experiment."

"We want our players to enjoy football," he says. "We want them to enjoy college. We want them to learn about art and literature and music and all the other things college has to offer. College should be a great time. It is the only time a person is really free. We don't want them just tied to a football program."

And that's the way Paterno recruits.

There are no wild promises or empty guarantees. There is no red-shirting or lowering of admission standards. It's made clear early in a player's career that education and academic scholarship are paramount.

This experiment is Paterno's dream of being able to build great football teams without making concessions in vital areas of academic quality.

Paterno also senses his place in Penn State's football history.

"We are all part of a great tradition started 33 years ago by Coach Bob Higgins and continued under Rip Engle. We have a great responsibility to carry on this tradition."

Paterno has come quite a distance since 1949 when he was a skinny-legged quarterback at Brown whose play caused the late Stanley Woodward to write:

"He can't run and he can't pass. All he can do is think — and win."

But at Brown he quarterbacked two of Rip Engle's best teams (7-2 in '48 and 8-1 in '49) and also played varsity basketball.

Paterno, however, almost missed his calling to the coaching profession, following his graduation from Brown in 1950 with a degree in English Literature.

"I had planned a career in law, or perhaps even politics," Paterno explains, "until Rip told me he had taken the Penn State job and asked if I would go along and coach the offensive backs."

Joe decided to give it a brief try, "just to broaden my experience before going to law school." He had been accepted by the Boston University Law School.

That was 23 years ago.

"I grew to love Penn State so much that after two or three years with Rip I dreamed about nothing other than becoming its head coach someday," said Paterno. "It's the only job I ever really wanted in coaching."

During his 16 years as Engle's assistant he achieved national recognition for his development of quarterbacks like All-American Richie Lucas, Milt Plum, Al Jacks, Tony Rados, Dick Hoak, Galen Hall and Pete Liske.

Born in Brooklyn, Dec. 21, 1926, Paterno attended Brooklyn Preparatory School (Class of '45), where he played in the same backfield with his brother George, coach at Kings Point.

In his senior year at Brooklyn Prep. Joe was the star of an 8-1 team whose only defeat was to St. Cecila's of Englewood, N.J., a powerhouse coached by the late Vince Lombardi.

Paterno was in the Army in 1945 and 1946, serving part of his tour of duty with the Army of Occupation in Korea. He entered Brown following his military discharge.

Joe married the former Suzanne Pohl and of Latrobe, Pa., in 1962. She's a Penn State graduate, Class of 1962. They have two daughters, Diana Lynne (born 4-7-63) and Mary Kathryn (b. 1-13-65) and three sons, David (b. 7-1-66), Joseph Jr. (b. 10-21-68) and George Scott (b. 11-1-72).

A man with a sharp sense of humor and wit, Paterno loves lively discussions on a wide range of topics — especially politics, current events, history, and of course, sports.

The most exciting aspect of coaching?

"The day in and day out work with young men," Paterno says. "You work with them, work with them and work with them — they have confidence in you and you in them, and all of a sudden on a Saturday afternoon you look up and there are 50,000 people and your players wonder whether they can do the job and you wonder if you've been able to get the job across to them. Then the whistle blows and you're in the middle of things. It's great excitement — a great feeling of pride when the players and coaches get the job done. Of course, you're frustrated when you don't, but this part too is exciting — and part of the whole thing."

PENN STATE 1, NEW ENGLAND 0

Joe Paterno and Penn State President John W. Oswald at the press conference announcing Joe's decision to stay at Penn State.

In January of this year, the New England Patriots of the National Football League beckoned to college football's most successful coach with an attractive offer. Joe Paterno did some soul-searching and rejected that offer with a statement that speaks well for Penn State and all of college football. Paterno's statement on January 6, 1973:

Well, I think I want to start with the first thing: I've decided to stay at Penn State. There are several things I'd like to just quickly talk about. Yesterday morning I talked to Mr. Sullivan and told him I decided to stay at Penn State. He's been a very wonderful man, very generous. The Patriots tried to present an opportunity to me which I felt was as good as anyone was able to get out of pro football and I felt that I could enjoy working with Mr. Sullivan and the Patriots. However, when I analyzed the situation here at Penn State, I realized that I've always hoped that I could work in an atmosphere on a campus where the approach by the administration towards athletics was such that I could be a little more than just a football coach, and that's what Penn State has allowed me to be. I'm not just a football coach and a businessman. Because of Penn State's approach to athletics within the entire framework of the University, I have had an opportunity to work with young people and have an influence on their lives. I think that that was an overriding factor in my decision — the fact that this is such a healthy atmosphere. The other thing that I felt very strongly about, both Sue and myself, was that we really love Pennsylvania. I've been in Pennsylvania now 23 years and the Pennsylvania people have been great whether I go into a city or a town or whether you stop off to see some kid in a farm area — whatever — everybody has always been warm and sincere and gracious to me and I really feel as if I would be leaving a family that had been wonderful to me. Then the third reason why I decided to stay was the challenge that's still here at Penn State. I walked off that Sugar Bowl field New Year's eve night after a good licking and I felt as if we still had a lot to do and that there were some great challenges left. As you know, I've said many times I've had a dream that Penn State could be the greatest in everything, whether it was a library, whether it was the soccer team or whatever it may be; and I feel that I can still make some sort of a contribution to some of those goals. The challenge of that is what kept me. I suppose if I summed it up I just feel Penn State's too good a place to leave.

JOE ADDRESSES THE GRADUATES

In an extraordinary move, the senior class committee asked Joe Paterno to be the speaker at Penn State's 1973 commencement exercises. It was the first time in the 118-year history of the occasion that a football coach had been asked to address the graduates. The following is a complete text of his address at Beaver Stadium on June 16, 1973:

It is a great honor for me to have this opportunity to talk with you on a most important occasion for you and for Penn State.

When Dr. Oswald called me to his office a few months ago and, on behalf of your student committee, asked me to be your speaker, to be honest, I was thrilled. However, I wasn't sure I should do it. I wondered whether it was good for the University or whether it was fair to you. Could I contribute something which would make this commencement a more meaningful experience to you? Some of you have every right to feel let down that after four years of hard work you have to listen to a coach at your graduation. Furthermore, what would outsiders think of this great University having such an unlettered individual represent its academic community? But, in spite of these and other misgivings, I accepted. I accepted because I realize that in a day when materialism is rampant many of you felt that my interest in doing other things besides making money has in some way helped you to reaffirm your ideal of a life of service, of dignity, and a life of meaning which goes beyond financial success. Again, the fact that there has been generous praise from many places for my decision to remain at Penn State made me wonder just how strong, at any price, has become our commitment to materialism and made me think that perhaps I could say something to you which would put things in perspective. However, I assure you that in stepping outside of my role as a football coach, I do it with great trepidation and humility. Who knows, I may be the only commencement speaker this year who doesn't give his opinion on Watergate. Although I do want to make one comment on President Nixon's role in the affair. I'd like to know, how could the President know so little about Watergate in 1973, and so much about college football in 1969?

Now allow me to make some observations.

I chuckle at people who blame the "system" for our problems, just as I laugh at those who claim that we should have blind faith in our government and our institutions. What is this notorious "system?" In my game, people talk about offensive formations as the cure-all. After we lost to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl, many people asked, "Are you going to switch to the wishbone formation?" Believe me, it isn't the plays or the offensive system which gets the job done, it is the quality of the players which makes the formation effective. And it is you who will make the organization work for you and you who will become victims of this system if you fail to execute your responsibilities to yourself and to your fellow human beings. You have a part to play and, if you loaf or quit, don't sit back and complain that our method is no good. The system, the organization, the method, the government — is you. If each of us is easily seduced by expediency, by selfishness, by ambition regardless of cost of our principles, then the spectacle of Watergate will surely mark the end of this grand experiment in democracy. One of the tragedies of Watergate is to see so many bright young men, barely over thirty, who have so quickly prostituted their honor and decency in order to get ahead, to be admired, to stay on the "team." These same young people within the short period of the last ten years sat in convocations such as this. They were ready to change the world. They didn't trust the over-thirty generation. I warn you — don't underestimate the world — it can corrupt quickly and completely. And heed Walter Lippman who wrote several years ago: "It is a mistake to suppose that there is satisfaction and the joy of life in a self-indulgent generation, in one interested primarily in the pursuit of private wealth and private pleasure and private success — we are very rich but we are not having a good time — for our life though it is full of things is empty of the kind of purpose and effort that gives to life its flavor and meaning."

What Lippman wants us to realize is that money alone will not make you happy: success without honor is an unseasoned dish, it will satisfy your hunger but it won't taste good.

This is why I enjoy coaching at Penn State so much. We set high goals for our people. My squad even has to listen to me quote Browning who said: "A man's reach should exceed his grasp or what's a heaven for?" We strive to be No. 1. We work hard to achieve our goals and when Saturday comes and we walk on the grass in this stadium, we stand as a team. We tighten up our belts. We look across at our opponents. We say, "Come on, let's go. Let's see how good you are. Let's play." We are ready. We play with enthusiasm and recklessness. We aren't afraid to lose. If we win, great, wonderful — and the alumni are happy for another week. But, win or lose, it is the competition which gives us pleasure.

It is being involved in a common cause which brings us joy and memories which endure in teammates.

It is making our very best effort, that we have stretched to the very limit of our ability, which makes us bigger men and more able to stretch again: to reach even higher as we undertake new challenges.

I'm sure that it is obvious to all of you that you are going out into a fragmented, disillusioned, and often times confused society — a society which has promised more than it is willing or perhaps able to deliver to our minority groups and, among others, to our poverty victims. There is corruption, fear, mistrust, lack of leadership, unequal justice, privileged economic groups, and all the abuses you would expect in a nation without consistent direction — in a country without a common purpose and a people unsure of moral commitments. We are experiencing the frustrations of a society which is desperately struggling with itself, afraid that at any moment it will be ripped apart by deep-rooted racism which regardless of all our enlightened medication persists as a cancer which defies cure. We cannot get rid of a war we do not want to fight. We cannot wash our hands of the blood that has been shed when we only wish peace and freedom for everybody. We are a decent people struggling with ourselves.

I read in the Washington Post last Sunday a quote from Dr. Gunnar Myrdal, the Swedish scholar. Commenting on Watergate, he said:

"When I first arrived in America 30 years ago I discovered a country constantly struggling for its soul. I suppose you grow weary of the struggle and occasionally wish for the peace that comes with not caring. But your ideals are deeply rooted in your life, preached, taught, and exhorted until they are part of the air your children breathe. Even in your failures to live up to that idealism, you salute it. You still believe that high principles would rule even when they do not. Wait brother, America will return to first things."

Wait brother, America will return to first things?

Hopefully, we will return to first things, but it will not happen quickly or easily and I would mislead you if I told you we are close to solving our problems or that I believe that this group in its lifetime can make this world perfect. "Perfect" is an awesome word. It denotes something that we may not even recognize when we see it or have it. So you may not make our society perfect, but you can make it better. And I guess it follows that first you must get better before you can get perfect. We like to tell our football team, "Do the little things right and the big things will take care of themselves. Don't look for the touchdown run all the time; think about hitting in there tough play after play and then, boom, all of a sudden a big play will present itself." I remember telling one of our quarterbacks who was being promoted as the pre-season All-America quarterback when he asked what he had to do to make it. I told him, "Just play your game. Do all the little things right, don't think about spectacular plays, and if you have the ability and a little luck, the big plays will come and you will be an All-America."

W. H. Auden said it beautifully when he wrote on the death of Sigmund Freud: "Everyday there die among us those who were doing us some good and knew it was never enough but hoped to improve a little by living."

Living your life so that by some little things you will improve our world just by living. But be realistic enough as you continue your adventure in life to understand that regardless of how strong you are and how smart you are, you will at times become discouraged. The problems we face are agonizingly complex because they ultimately deal with people and their institutions.

And, you must have infinite patience, much understanding and above all great maturity. Our forefathers who carved out this country had blind faith in America. They had no obligations to the rest of the world and they had only to be concerned with what was best for their nation. They had never been beaten and they had supreme confidence. Our state of mind is different. We cannot morally escape our responsibility to the rest of the world and we can never again do what is right just for America. We will never again have a supreme confidence that everything we do is right — not after Vietnam and Kent State. Not after the assassination of Martin Luther King and John Kennedy, not after the death of Bobby Kennedy, and not after Watergate. But this doesn't mean we can be less decisive than our forefathers. We must always act, but when we are wrong, we must be mature enough to realize it and act accordingly. This is where greatness lies and national frustrations end. We must be mature enough to admit we didn't win in Vietnam, that we don't really have peace with honor, that we can't force all of our citizens to love each other — then we can stop tearing ourselves apart. We shall act, and we shall act with good intentions. Hopefully we will often be right, but at times we will be wrong. When we are, let us admit it and immediately try to right the situation. Our country, right or wrong? Yes, but love her enough, respect her enough that when she is wrong we stand bigger for admitting it.

There is another thing I tell my team. I tell them to keep hustling, go all out on every play no matter how bad things look because, if you keep hustling, something good will happen. A familiar cry up and down our sidelines when things are going badly is "keep hustling, something good will happen" and usually it does.

So keep hustling. You'll do all right. Enjoy yourselves, enjoy life. Have some fun. Our squad enjoys kidding me because on a nice day before a game I like to walk into the locker room and say, "Boy, what a day — oh to be young again." I tell them, — "Enjoy the game, you will only get to play so many in your life." The same goes for you. Because you see misery and inequality and frustrations around you, do your best. Maybe you will be the uncommon man who can do more than anyone, but in any case, do as those two great losers in life, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid did, "Have a hell of a good time doing it."

Let me end on a personal note. We have loved you because you have given us our challenge, our joy of living. You have inspired us to stretch. You have disrupted our comfortable thinking. You have made us re-evaluate, think again about our ideals and our principles. You have made us look again at our souls.

We hope you have loved each other because a little bit of you is inside one another. John Steinbeck said in Grapes of Wrath, "Maybe man doesn't own his own soul, only a piece of a big man."

I cannot adequately describe to you the love that permeates a good football team—a love of one another. Perhaps as one of my players said "we grow together in love — hating the coach."

But to be in a locker room before a big game and to gather a team around and to look at grown men with tears in their eyes, huddling close to each other . . . reaching out to be part of each other . . . to look into strong faces which say "if we can only do it today" . . . to be with aggressive, ambitious people who have lost themselves in something bigger than they are — this is what living is all about.

We have shared four years together, years we will never forget and we hope this short journey has made us all a little better.

We wish you Godspeed and we wish you good luck but most of all we wish you peace.

PATERNO NATION'S 'WINNINGEST' COACH

Joe Paterno has retained his position as the nation's "winningest" major college football coach.

Statistics released by National Collegiate Sports Services give Paterno the top winning percentage among active coaches with at least five years as head coach at a major college. Paterno has led the list all three years he has been eligible.

In seven years as Penn State's head coach, Paterno has compiled a record of 63 wins, 13 losses and a tie for a winning percentage of .825. Arizona's Frank Kush is second with a .784 percentage in 15 seasons.

Paterno has built Penn State's program into one of the nation's finest. The Nittany Lions have been ranked in the top ten and gone to a major bowl game five of the last six years. They were 10-2 last year.

The nation's winningest coaches (ties count as half won, half lost):

Penn State Season in Review

TENNESSEE 28, PENN STATE 21

The Nittany Lions drew a tough opening game assignment at Tennessee — a nationally-ranked team that already had a game under its belt. The Vols took advantage of some first half Penn State jitters to open up a 21-0 halftime lead. The Lions came roaring back behind quarterback John Hufnagel in the second half, but fell short in a 28-21 loss.

John Cappelletti scored on a two-yard run in the third quarter, but a score by Andy Pease put Navy back in the lead at 10-7. Cappelletti's second touchdown with 4:58 to play in the third period put the Lions ahead to stay at 14-10 and John Skorupan returned an interception 32 yards for a score with 1:18 left to clinch the game. Skorupan was named Associated Press Lineman of the Week for his efforts, which included 17 tackles in addition to the TD on the interception.

PENN STATE 45, BOSTON COLLEGE 26

Penn State and Boston College wound up in a scoring battle in Alumni Stadium in a game finally won by the Lions' superior firepower. Huffy hit Jimmy Scott on a 76-yard scoring bomb, ran 57 yards for another score and added a final TD on a four-yard pass to Dan Natale. SUGAR BOWL

OKLAHOMA 14, PENN STATE 0

Penn State found itself matched against one of the nation's top two teams in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans on New Year's Eve.

Oklahoma came into the game as the nation's second-ranked team and proceeded to justify its right to that lofty position in the polls. Lion coach Joe Paterno called the Sooners "the best team we have played since the Michigan State team with Bubba Smith and George Webster in 1965."

Paterno and the Lions might have guessed it wasn't going to be their night when they learned just hours before the game that leading rusher John Cappelletti had a virus and would be unable to play. Without Cappelletti's ball-control running, the Lion defense spent a great deal of time on the field.

As it turned out, the Lion defense did a spectacular job against one of the most explosive offenses in college football history, holding the Sooners to just 14 points.

State's problem was not enough offense. The Lions had only 196 yards total offense and 11 first downs in the game.

Oklahoma scored with 8:28 to play in the second period on a 27-yard pass from Dave Robertson to freshman Tinker Owens, brother of former Heisman Trophy winner Steve Owens. The completion capped a 77-yard drive.

Oklahoma got its clinching touchdown with 9:46 left in the final period. A fumbled punt gave the Sooners the ball on the Penn State 33-yard line and they drove it in with the help of a 17-yard completion from halfback Joe Wylie to Owens. That play, which safetyman Gregg Ducatte and several other Lions claimed was a trapped ball, moved the Sooners to the Penn State one-yard line. The Sooners scored two plays later on a one-yard plunge by fullback Leon Crosswhite.

Quarterback John Hufnagel then drove the Lions to a third down and one situation on the Sooner 19-yard line, but the Oklahoma defense rose to the occasion again to seal the victory.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

The list of all-time Penn State football lettermen includes every varsity letterwinner since the sport was officially started at Penn State in 1887.

The Nittany Lions have had 31 players earn four football letters, five men win five letters and one player achieve the unusual distinction of being a six-time letterman. The longevity award goes to L. R. Scholl, who won his varsity S in 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901.

The list of five-time lettermen includes Charles M. Atherton (1890-94), H. P. Dowler (1889-93), R. A. "Bob" Higgins (1914-19), C. C. Hildebrand (1887-91) and J. S. Rumble (1896-1900).

The Pennsylvania State University

The Pennsylvania State University was chartered in 1855 as one of the pioneer institutions in a beginning national movement to offer higher education to all classes of society.

By 1862, when Abraham Lincoln signed the land grant act "to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes," Penn State had already awarded its first Bachelor of Scientific Agriculture degrees. In 1863, it was designated as the land grant college of Pennsylvania by the State Legislature.

From humble beginnings, the University has grown to be the twelfth largest in the nation with a student body of more than 45,000 and a faculty of 3,200 members. The University has awarded more than 135,000 degrees.

The University currently offers bachelor's degrees in 118 separate fields. Graduate programs are available in 118 fields.

A distinctive feature of Penn State is a system of 19 Commonwealth Campuses, strategically located throughout Pennsylvania to bring the University within commuting range of virtually every person in the State. These campuses offer the first two years of the baccalaureate degree as well as terminal two-year programs in engineering and related technologies.

The central campus at University Park, located in the heart of the Commonwealth, is devoting more and more of its efforts to third and fourth year undergraduate instruction and graduate work. The Capitol Campus near Harrisburg also offers third and fourth year undergraduate programs and graduate work at the master's level. Other graduate centers are operated at King of Prussia and Erie.

The newest unit in the University is the College of Medicine at the Milton S. Hershey Medical Center in Hershey. Made possible by a $50,000,000 allocation by the M. S. Hershey Foundation, the college graduated its first class this spring.

The University's physical plant comprises 14,775 acres of land and is valued at $280,000,000.

Dr. John W. Oswald

President, The Pennsylvania State University

Dr. John W. Oswald is Penn State's 13th president. He assumed the office of the presidency on July 1, 1970.

Dr. Oswald came to Penn State from the University of California where he had served as executive vice-president since 1968. He was president of the University of Kentucky from 1963 to 1968.

Born in Minneapolis, Minn., Dr. Oswald is a graduate of DePauw University. He received his Ph.D. in plant pathology from the University of California in 1942. As an undergraduate, Dr. Oswald excelled in the classroom and on the athletic fields. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa as well as captain of the football team. He also earned varsity letters in basketball and track.

After receiving his doctorate, Dr. Oswald entered the Navy. He served until 1946 and had more than 50 combat missions as a PT boat captain and divisional commander in the Mediterranean, earning the Navy Commendation Medal.

Dr. Oswald returned to the University of California after his release from the Navy. He was assistant professor of plant pathology and plant pathologist in the Agricultural Experimental Station at Cal's Davis campus.

In 1953, Dr. Oswald received a Fulbright grant to the Agricultural University of The Netherlands. He returned to Cal's Berkeley campus in 1954 as chairman of the Department of Plant Pathology. He was promoted to full professor in 1957 and began concurrent duties as administrative assistant to the Chancellor of the Berkeley campus.

Dr. Oswald was promoted to the Office of the President of the state-wide University of California system in 1958. He served as academic assistant to the president, assistant vice president, vice president and executive assistant. He was named vice president for administration in 1962.

A trustee of the Institute for Educational Management, he is president of the Board of Directors of the American Council on Education and an ex-officio member of the Commission on Academic Affairs. He is chairman of the Senate special committee on Federal legislation, one of the most vital assignments within the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges. He is also a member of the Association's standing committee on educational telecommunications.

His professional and honorary memberships include Sigma Xi, and the American Phytopathological Society. He was a consultant to the National Science Foundation from 1960 to 1967. He holds honorary degrees from DePauw University; University of Louisville; Centre College; the University of California, Davis; Temple University; and Juniata College.

Dr. Oswald is married to the former Rosanel Owen of Birmingham, Ala. They have two daughters, Elizabeth and Nancy, and a son, John, Jr.

Robert J. Scannell

Dean of the College of Health,
Physical Education and Recreation

Dr. Robert J. Scannell succeeded Ernest B. McCoy as Dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and director of the Sports Research Institute on July 1, 1970. He had been Associate Dean since 1967.

At Penn State, the position of dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation is distinctive in that it combines responsibility for academic programming, intramural and intercollegiate athletic activities and student recreation in one administrative unit.

Dr. Scannell is immediate past chairman of Penn State's Academic Council of Deans.

As administrator of the Sports Research Institute, Dr. Scannell directs a unique program which utilizes coaches, medical personnel and researchers from many disciplines throughout the University in both practical and theoretical study of sports in contemporary society. The Institute was established early in 1969.

The dean is a graduate of Notre Dame, where he received a bachelor of science degree, magna cum laude, in physical education and earned three varsity letters in football. He was awarded the master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees in physical education by Penn State.

Dr. Scannell joined the Penn State faculty in 1961, following three years at John Adams High School, South Bend, Ind., where he was chairman of the physical education department, teacher, and football and swimming coach.

In 1963, he was appointed Dean McCoy's representative for Commonwealth Campus programs. In this capacity, he was responsible for the development of instructional health and physical education and intramural and intercollegiate athletic programs throughout the Commonwealth Campus system of the University. In 1967 he was named associate dean for undergraduate resident instruction with responsibility for the academic programming of the College.

Dr. Scannell, whose teaching and research interests focus on motor skill learning and program administration, has published articles in professional journals and presented papers at meetings of the American and Pennsylvania State Associations for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, of which he is a member. He also has served as editor of the Pennsylvania Journal of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Dean Scannell also devotes considerable time to University-wide faculty and administrative responsibilities, serving as vice chairman (1967-68) and chairman (1968-69) of the University Senate, as a member of various Senate and Administration committees and as chairman of the Council of Academic Deans of the University.

He is married to the former Regina Feehan of Kansas City, Kansas. They have four children.

Edward M. Czekaj

Director of Athletics

When Ed Czekaj (pronounced CHECK-eye) moved into the athletic director's job on July 1, 1969, he brought 16 years experience in athletic administration to the position.

Most of that experience was gained at Penn State under Ernest B. McCoy, the man who recommended that Czekaj move up to the top position.

As athletic director, Czekaj succeeded McCoy, Dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and director of athletics since 1952. Czekaj's promotion, in fact, was recommended by McCoy, who continued to serve as dean of the college of health and physical education and director of the Sports Research Institute until June 30, 1970.

Czekaj, 51 years old and a 1948 Penn State graduate, had been associate athletic director since 1967 and business manager of athletics since 1957.

He joined the Penn State staff in 1953 as assistant graduate manager of athletics. In 1955 he became ticket manager and assistant business manager and in 1957 he was promoted to business manager. He was named associate athletic director July 1, 1967.

He was on the athletic staff at The Johns Hopkins University from 1948 until 1951 and was with the Marine Corps in Korea in 1951 and 1952, with the rank of captain.

As an undergraduate, he played varsity football and basketball and was an end on the Nittany Lions' unbeaten 1947 team which played in the Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1, 1948. He received a master of education degree from Penn State in 1954.

In January of 1969 he was named "College Athletic Business Manager of the Year" at the College Athletic Business Managers Association meeting in Los Angeles.

On the national level, he is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association committee on reorganization and the NCAA legislative committee. He also is a member of the National Association of College Athletic Directors, serving on the publications committee of that organization. Active on the NCAA Lacrosse Rules and Tournament Committee, he has served as vice-president, member of the long-range planning committee and chairman of the statistics committee. He is a member of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation Council as well as a member of a special NCAA committee to investigate additional support for championship events which incur deficits. He has been inducted into the Helms Hall of Fame Foundation for business managers.

He has been the meet director for NCAA gymnastics and wrestling championships and in 1968 was cited by the NCAA wrestling rules committee for his outstanding direction of the national wrestling tournament. He also has directed Olympic trials in gymnastics and wrestling and annually serves as director of the Pennsylvania high school championships in track, golf, tennis, volleyball, rifle and cross-country.

On the sectional level, he is vice president of the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), chairman of the long range planning committee, a member of the finance committee, member of the Executive Council, past president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League and past president of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association.

A native of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and a 1941 graduate of Ramsay High School where he played football and basketball, Czekaj is married to the former Virginia Gallup (Penn State '48) of Port Allegany. They have two children.

James I. Tarman

Associate Director of Athletics
Assistant to the Dean

Jim Tarman was named Associate Director of Athletics and Assistant to the Dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation on July 1 of this year.

His primary areas of athletic responsibility deal with public relations and public affairs, development and fund raising, radio and television, alumni relations and delegated staff and policy responsibilities relating to the overall intercollegiate program.

His responsibilities also include that of producing and managing the Penn State Football Radio Network, on which he serves as the color announcer for the game broadcasts. He is also familiar to Penn State football fans as the co-host of "TV Quarterbacks," the University's state-wide weekly television show during the season.

As Assistant to the Dean he performs a secondary (to his athletic responsibilities) role in the office of the Dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation (of which the intercollegiate department is a part), working with matters of public and athletic relations as they impact on the College as a whole, and on other matters as assigned by Dean Robert Scannell.

From 1970 until the promotion to his present position, Tarman was Assistant to the Athletic Director and Director of Athletic Public Relations. Before that he was Penn State's Sports Information Director for 12 years.

Before coming to Penn State in 1958, he was Sports Information Director at Princeton University, and prior to that was Public Relations Director at Gettysburg College, his alma mater.

Sever J. (Tor) Toretti

Assistant Athletic Director

Sever J. Toretti is assistant director of athletics in charge of recruiting at Penn State. He holds the academic rank of an associate professor in the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Toretti is concerned chiefly with serving as a liaison between the University and secondary schools and as a consultant to prospective student-athletes. He has helped to influence many outstanding athletes to enroll at Penn State, many of whom have gained national recognition.

He was an assistant football coach from 1949 to March 1, 1963, when he assumed his current duties.

Richard J. Lucas

Business Manager of Athletics

Rich Lucas became business manager of athletics at Penn State in 1972. He had served as assistant business manager since 1965.

An All-American quarterback at Penn State in 1959, Lucas played with several American Football League teams and served in the Army after graduation. He was with the University's continuing education services for two years before joining the athletic department staff.

John M. Morris

Sports Information Director

John Morris, a 1963 graduate of Penn State, is in his fourth year on the athletic staff at his alma mater.

He returned to Penn State in 1970 after serving six years as Sports Information Director at the University of Delaware. Prior to that he had served brief stints as news editor of the Centre Daily Times and golf editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun.

Morris is a former president of the Eastern College Athletic Conference Sports Information Directors Association (ECAC-SIDA) and has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the College Sports Information Directors Association (CoSIDA). He has won four national awards for his publications at Delaware and Penn State.

Barry W. Jones

Assistant Sports Information Director

Barry Jones, a 1970 graduate of Penn State, joined the athletic staff at his alma mater immediately after graduation.

As an undergraduate, Jones was sports director of student radio station WDFM, a part-time employee of public television station WPSX-TV and a student assistant in the sports information office. He became an assistant in sports information after graduation and was promoted to assistant sports information director this year.

PENN STATE RADIO NETWORK

FRAN FISHER

Penn State's football radio network, which includes more than 40 stations throughout Pennsylvania and surrounding states, is one of the largest independent networks in the country.

Fran Fisher, special projects director for the University's Division of Broadcasting, is in his fourth year as play-by-play announcer. He had been color announcer for four years prior to taking over the play-by-play duties in 1970.

Jim Tarman, Associate Athletic Director at Penn State, is the color announcer for the games. In addition to his on-the-air duties, Tarman serves as executive producer of the network for the athletic department.

The Fisher-Tarman team is a familiar one to Penn State football fans. They are co-hosts of "TV Quarterbacks," Penn State's weekly state-wide television show during the football season.

Before assuming his current position with the University, Fisher was with station WKVA in Lewistown for eight years. He has also worked at station WHJB in Greensburg and station WQED-TV in Pittsburgh.

His more than 20 years of experience in radio and television include play-by-play and color coverage of many Penn State athletic events. He has also broadcast St. Vincent College football and basketball games and many high school events in the Lewistown and Greensburg areas.

MEMO TO PRESS-RADIO-TV

The material in this brochure was compiled for your convenience in covering Penn State's 1973 football season. Contents of this booklet and changes in plans and personnel will be supplemented before and during the season by the Sports Information Office.

Should you desire additional information, services, or material, contact John Morris or Barry Jones at 235 Recreation Building, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa. 16802. Telephone 814-865-1757.

When making requests for working press credentials allow time for mailing. For late requests, tickets will be left with attendant at press gate immediately behind West stand of Beaver Stadium. If wire or telephone service is required, please make necessary arrangements through your Western Union or telephone office.

WORKING PRESS: Admittance to the Beaver Stadium press box will be limited to the working press only. Press box passes are marked with row and seat numbers and assignments will be made upon receipt of request. Working space in the press box is at a premium, so in some cases admittance is limited to those papers actually covering for Sunday editions.

RADIO: There are six permanent radio booths in Beaver Stadium and facilities to make several additional temporary ones when necessary. One permanent booth will always be occupied by the Penn State Football Network. Another of the remaining permanent booths will be assigned to the visiting team's official station. For comfort, announcing crews should be limited to four persons plus one spotter for each team. Opponent stations should indicate when requesting credentials whether or not they will require a spotter for the Penn State team.

TELEVISION: Penn State's "live" television appearances are designated by the NCAA Television Committee, and facilities will be assigned in accordance with NCAA approval.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Press photographers will be assigned press box or sideline credentials or both, depending on requirements. Field passes are normally limited to daily newspaper, wire service, and magazine photographers with one caption writer or messenger available to each photographer. Field photographers must not stand in front of spectators nor pass in front of players' benches and are not permitted to enter the stands except with special permission. The "press box photo" pass allows the photographer to work on the top of the press box roof, or in any of the enclosed areas of the third deck of the press box specifically designated for photographers. The same rules apply to newsreel photographers. Camera crews making the coaching films for the opponent school will be limited to three persons.

THE 1973 BROCHURE

Although this brochure is designed chiefly for sportswriters, radio, TV and other news personnel to assist them in covering Penn State football, fans may order copies (while they last) at a cost of $2.00 each by mailing check or money order to the Penn State Athletic Department, 237 Recreation Building, University Park, 16802. Make checks payable to the Pennsylvania State University and please include $.50 for mailing and handling.
